Lads Like Us

The Million Pieces Experience

Overview

Lads like us (Mike and Danny) are on a simple mission to educate a million professionals with their lived experience.

They are 2 lads from Manchester and Salford whose journey started with a mission dedicated to informing the practice of professionals and organisations that failed them as children and adults. They were determined to make something positive out of their lived experience, chaos and anger in order to thrive.

The training will be delivered by Lads like us who have created a trauma informed training package focusing on professional curiosity that will inform practice by using little Mike and little Danny's experiences combined with the healing journeys for both not forgetting the input from the services that supported them.

There are 2 dates available, please note that the sessions are identical so delegates only need to book on one session.
