

Reducing Parental Conflict in the Interest of Improved Outcomes for Children and Families Training

Overview

This training is for all agencies with little to no knowledge or training in reducing parental conflict. It is an opportunity to find out more about this important offer.

The course is open to anyone who influences practice or has contact with families. Conflict is often present alongside other issues such as financial and housing worries. Research shows that understanding this and catching it early can make a real difference to a child.

For those of you who work directly with families the course will show you tools and approaches you can use with the family. For those of you who may identify a need and then refer on, the course will cover this, so you know where to go help.

Course aims:

- Provide the context as to why Parental Conflict is important
- Examine the difference between domestic abuse and parental conflict
- How to initiate conversations
- Show the Greater Manchester Relationships Toolkit

There will be a mixture of online sessions and face to face sessions

The virtual training sessions will be delivered in 2 parts and delegates are expected to attend both.

The face-to-face course will be delivered over 1 day and venue details will be circulated following the closing date for nominations
